Qu'est-ce que des bonhommes de neige la nuit?

(What do snowmen do at night)

Phoebe H. Leighton

As snow falls in the Jardin du Luxembourg Park, children build snowmen.

Then when all the kids are gone at dawn, we take a tour of Paris.

First, we go to the Louvre Museum and we see the Mona Lisa and we get scared because her eyes follow us around.

Then we go to the beautiful Eiffel Tower. Oh what a sight to see.

Our tummies are rumbling so we slide to the Les Deux Magots (a cafe) to get a croissant. Maybe we will be in a film, since this is a famous setting for movies.

Down the street, we window shop with lots of side shops and we buy a beret.

A street painter catches our eyes. We stop and all get our face painted.

But then it was time to go back because the sun is starting to rise.
Weary and tired we wobble back to the Jardin du Luxembourg.

Au Revoir!
